Media Advisory – Growing number of Canadian music creators support artist-centred copyright law, call on government Ministers to discuss reforms

Montreal
April 28, 2006

What: The announcement of the Canadian Music Creators Coalition has generated enormous global interest with dozens of media requests and worldwide press coverage. Since the Coalition stated its positions on copyright law and cultural policy, an incredible array of Canadian musicians has joined the CMCC.

In response, CMCC members, including Barenaked Ladies, Broken Social Scene, Andrew Cash and others, will hold a press conference to announce the identity of the latest Canadian musicians to speak out in their own names. They will shed light on their decision to speak for themselves, their concerns about copyright law and cultural policy and their demands for a face-to-face meeting with government Ministers responsible for these issues.

Where: The Horseshoe Tavern, 370 Queen Street West, Toronto Ontario

When: Monday, May 1, 2006. 10:30 am – 12 noon
